was to pre-different at-appointments, such as appointing guards, and forth; all of which duties he performed with promptness and moderation: secondly, to a most excellent and vigilant magistrate, who enforced the laws against every person who attempted to trespass on their privileges, within the limits they superintended: thirdly, it was owing to a prohibition of selling any thing, especially strong drinks; fourthly, to the attention of those appointed to stand at the gates leading into the camp ground, whose business it was to keep out all intoxicated persons, and others who shewed a disposition to behave improperly.

The order during the night is to be attributed to the attention of the guards, there being twenty on duty at a time, and relieved every two hours. Lastly, and particularly, was it owing to the disposition and apparent determination of every person to observe the rules of the meeting, and conduct themselves with propriety. In short, as a Spectator, I conceive the managers, magistrates, and people, are entitled to the highest praise; for at one of those Camp Meetings, every thing, almost, must depend on good order.

The solemnity and attention of the assembly was truly pleasing, and most especially have been so to those whose duty it was to address them, on the great concerns of eternity. An inattentive or trifling character was scarcely to be seen; no sooner did they enter on the ground, than they appeared to reflect, "this is God's own house," his "Heaven's gate," or to realise the words of Moses, "pull off thy shoes, for the place on which thou standest is holy ground."

The ministers of Jesus Christ did not find it a burden to preach, they were uncommonly and divinely assisted from above, and glorious displays of power attended the word of Gospel grace. They could not feel assisted by the prayers of hundreds of devout, zealous, and faithful souls, whose continual breathing was Lord give thy word success—Let thy gospel be thy power to the salvation of those that hear it.

But what was more affecting to me than any thing else was to see the numbers of all ages flock around the preachers, standing with an interest in their prayers, and the prayers of God's people.

It was no small cross for them thus to come forward, with the eyes of hundreds fixed on them; but they cared not how great the cross might be, so that their sorrowful and guilty souls might find redemption in Jesus Christ, even the forgiveness of their sins. Their cries came from the heart, and reached the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth, who in mercy attended to the voice of their supplication, and did not suffer them to plead long, nor plead in vain, but came suddenly to his temple, as the peaceful messenger of the covenant, and changed their lamentations and cries of distress into songs of praise and thanksgiving; while their countenances would sparkle and flash with the joy their overflowing hearts felt. In short, the good that was done cannot be calculated—hundreds felt the divine influence of grace, as they never felt before, while the souls of hundreds more were filled with joy and peace through believing.

Those who are not accustomed to such meetings might suppose there was great confusion and disorder. Indeed, if hearing a number at the same time and place praying, singing and shouting, while some are mourning and lamenting under a sense of their sins, occasions disorder and confusion, then there was much of it at the Camp Meeting; but I presume not so much as on the day of Pentecost, when three thousand souls were converted to God in one day, whereas there was not supposed to be more than one hundred at this meeting in five days.

I confess from what I have seen, I am friendly to Camp Meetings, yet I should feel myself at a loss to establish their propriety on principles of reason. It is asked whether we cannot worship God in churches built for that purpose, to the same advantage? Can it be necessary to go into the woods and encamp for days together in order to find God? I would answer, we can find God in any place when he is sought in spirit and in truth; yet so much are we the creatures of habit, that ordinances the most solemn, from being long administered to us in one formal way, lose their effect, whereas the same ordinances and institutions of religion administered, so as to speak out of the common way and order of things, have a tendency to arouse the mind and occasion reflections and impressions they otherwise would not.
But indeed any reasoning on this subject is useless, when the propriety and utility of it is established by so many undeniable facts. Shall we presume to lift up our hands against an institution God is thus graciously pleased to honor with his presence, and with the conversion of so many thousands; who afterwards adorn their profession of religion, and who finally die in the full triumph of faith, and in their last moments praise God for ever having seen a Camp Meeting?

Many hundreds have been suddenly awakened and changed at Camp Meetings, who have heard the Gospel in churches for years without any such reformation or change. To God's people the institution has been blessed in a very special manner.
They for a time seem to forget that they belong to this world, so fully are their minds absorbed in the contemplation and enjoyment of God. They here find how good it is to have the mind disengaged from the world, and it should teach them lessons they should never forget. How important to their happiness and peace of mind to have their affections placed in God alone. But, alas! we are still in the world, attending to its concerns, and surrounded by its troubles. It should be the object of the Christian to live above its smiles and frowns and through grace to support under its afflictions and disappointments.

On Tuesday morning the meeting closed, with the joyful expectation of again meeting in Heaven, they struck their tents, and departed praising God.

A SPECTATOR.

Captain Bowen, who arrived at New-York, last Monday in 16 days from St.
Martins, informs that on the 26th of July, a severe gale was experienced there which done great damage to the shipping in port, and to the plantations. A droger, which arrived just previous to captain Bowen's sailing informed, that the gale had extended to St. Kitts, and was attended with disastrous consequences. Five English ships and a number of Americans had gone ashore.

A New York paper states, that Mr. Fulton's ingenious steam boat, invented with a view to the navigation of the Mississippi from New Orleans upwards, was to move last Monday from the North river, near the state prison, to Albany. The velocity of the Steam Boat is calculated at four miles an hour; it is said that it will make a progress of two against the current of the Mississippi; and if so, it will certainly be a very valuable acquisition to the commerce of the western states.

Private letters from Altona, of the 16th instant states, that, that the Spanish ambassador to the court of Vienna, has officially declared with the consent of the emperor of the French, the Spanish troops now in Germany, would keep and occupy Hanover, until the troops of England evacuated Montevideo and all the other conquests in South America. Similar declarations are supposed to have been made by the ministers of the king of Spain at Constantinople, Copenhagen and Lisbon.

(London paper.)

Extract of a letter from a captain of a ship to his owners in Philadelphia, dated Antwerp, June 21st.

"I hope our treaty got the necessary modifications in England, after being returned by our president: from the polite treatment I received from the commanders of two of his Britannic majesty's ships I was boarded by, I concluded, the difference is adjusted."

Captain Aderton, from Mantanzas, informs us, that an American pilot boat schooner, from La Vera Cruz, with 200,000 dollars on board had been captured by a British line of battle ship. The same report was in circulation at the Havana previous to captain Christian's sailing.
[N. Y. paper.]

Mr. O'KELLEY is expected to preach his farewell SERMONS next Sunday forenoon, at 11 o'clock, and in the afternoon at the ringing of the bell, in the old Methodist meeting-house.

Prospectus of the Pantomime.

SCENE 1st.—The Sea-shore—a violent Storm, and Ship-Wreck—the beach strewed with fragments of a wreck.

The Pantomime commences with Perouse's escape from the wreck—he deploras his fate, and frantically draws a dirk to destroy himself —he is disarmed by lightning—addresses himself to Heaven and implores forgiveness—he discovers a store-chest thrown on the beach, which supplies his present necessities.
Perouse retires to explore a cave, leaving the chest open—during his absence a Bear of the island enters, altering the position of Perouse's arrangements, and closing the lid of the chest, retires in search of his prey. Pe-rouse returns, discovers the devastation, is alarmed, supposing it to be done by human beings—arms himself and retires cautiously.
Chimpanzee, (an animal of the monkey kind) comes from the rocks, jumps into the chest, and regales on the stores; the Bear returns, springs towards him, and catches him in his arms. Perouse returns and shoots the Bear —encourages Chimpanzee to come to him, ties his handkerchief round his neck and leads him by the light of a torch into the cave.

Scene 2. The interior of the Cave. Pe-rouse and Chimpanzee explore further its recesses.

Scene 3. A Natural Grotto, where the water has made its way through in various directions and is frozen; the icicles hanging from the top, cement the several ores and variegated shells, and form the petrified arches.
Perouse enters with Chimpanzee, ties him to a part of the grotto, and retires for the purpose of bringing the remains of the wreck—Chimpanzee releases himself, and running to the trunk, accidentally fires one of the pistols. Perouse returns alarmed, discovers the mischief, corrects the animal, and makes him understand that he is in want of water to drink, for which they leave the grotto.

Scene 4. The Beach as before. A canoe seen at a distance; it approaches the shore; the Indians land; are astonished at the appearance of the wreck. The roaring of wild beasts heard—they prepare their bows and arrows, and commence the hunt.

Scene 5. A Landscape—a number of wild berries are seen. Perouse pulls a bunch, &c is about to eat them, the monkey informs him they are poison; Perouse gratefully caresses him, and they depart in search of a spring.

Scene 6. The Beach as before. The Savages are discovered round a fire—they observe Perouse approaching and retire in anticipation of attack. Umba, an Indian female, struck with the appearance of Perouse, determines to save his life by her influence.
Perouse advances with caution; the savages spring upon him, when Umba rushes from her retreat, interposes her body between the arrows of the Indians and Perouse; at her entreaty they place their bows and arrows on the ground. Perouse, rejoiced to find them pacifically inclined, follows their example, &c makes friendly advances, which are received with admiration by Umba; he then presents her with his watch, ring and hat; the savages are pleased and surprised. Kanko, their chief, struck with the appearance of the gun, is excited by curiosity to examine it. Pe-rouse, alarmed, snatches it from him—The Indians assume their attitude of defence, but by the intercession of Umba, peace is again restored. The Indians place Perouse's hat upon a spear, and joyously dance round it.
Umba offers to shew Perouse the situation of the island, which he accepts, and they retire.
Kanko, the lover of Umba, immediately becomes jealous, and determines to destroy Pe-rouse by poisoned berries—he consults Umba's father and brother on the means, to which they agree—Perouse and Umba return.
Kanko accuses Perouse of treachery—alarmed at his situation, he requests Umba to return to her lover. Kanko presents the poisoned berries to Perouse and entreats him to eat. Perouse shews them to Umba and informs her how he came by them. She furiously reproves Kanko for his treachery, and falls on the neck of Perouse. Kanko retires chagrined at being foiled in his attempt on Perouse's life. Umba becomes enamored of Perouse—he informs her that he is already married, and shews her the picture of his wife.

The Indians prepare to depart. Kanko seizes Umba to force her to the canoe; she clings to Perouse, who, to convince the Indians that he wishes for her departure, joins their hands. Umba disdainfully throws Kanko from her, and runs away; the Indians take the alarm and pursue her. Perouse seizes his gun to save Umba from the fury of their revenge, fires amongst them and runs to her assistance. The monkey hearing the report of a gun, comes from the cave with a lighted torch; seeing the danger, drops it, and climbs up a rock. Umba enters, snatches up the lighted torch, and runs into the cave to escape the fury of her pursuers. Kanko enters in pursuit of her—prepares his spear to stab Perouse, who now enters, encountering the whole party of Indians; they press upon him, and overcome him. Kanko wounds him in the side with a poisoned spear. The savages retire to their canoe. Chimpanzee descends from the rock, discovers the wound in Perouse's side, and sucks the poison from the wound. Perouse recovers. Umba now comes from the cave. Perouse avoids her—She requests to become his slave, which he refuses—in despair she plucks the poisoned berries, determined to destroy herself, which Perouse prevents—he shews her the wound in his side. Umba runs for a leaf to heal the wound—the monkey returns with a loaded gun to Perouse—Umba pursued by a Bear, which Perouse shoots. She then binds up his wounds, and they retire to the grotto.

Act 2d commences with the arrival of Madame Perouse on the island. Scene 2. Their examination of the cave. Scene 3. The grotto, Conge, a servant of Perouse, met by Chimpanzee. Madame Perouse enters the grotto with her child; discovers a map of the island, drawn by Perouse, with directions to in search of it.

Scene 4. A mountainous part of the Island. The savages return, discover Madame Perouse, her child and servant, in search of the hut, and seize them. Madame Perouse makes her escape. The Indians attempt to murder the child, but are prevented by Chimpanzee.

Scene 5. Perouse's Hut, with a Drawbridge leading to it. Chimpanzee escapes with the child. Madame Perouse, pursued by the Indians, is rescued by Perouse.

Scene 6. The mountainous country. Kanko enraged. Conge deceives the Indians—makes his escape—they pursue. Scene 7.
The interior of Perouse's hut. Madame Perouse's recovery. Umba's jealousy and despair—her enraged departure. Scene 8. The mountainous country. Umba meditating revenge. Kanko attempts her life; he relents —they plan the destruction of Perouse; she describes the use of the pistol; they retire to effect their purpose. Scene 9. The interior of the hut. The child asleep, guarded by Chimpanzee. Perouse and Madame taken by the Indians. Scene 10. The Rocks. A party of marines in search of Perouse, are met by Conge. They depart to rescue his master.

Scene the last. Perouse tied to the stake.

dame Perouse refuses the proffered love of Kanko, who immediately fires the faggots—Chimpanzee releases the hand of Perouse, places a pistol in it, with which he shoots Kanko. Chimpanzee, pursued by the Indians, escapes with the child, and the triumph of Perouse and his party over the savages.

ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE.

OF the great efficacy of the Patent and Family Medicines, prepared by the late Richard Lee, jun. which, for near eight years past have acquired throughout the United States a celebrity hitherto unequalled.

Philadelphia, August 9, 1800.

Being desirous to make public for the good of others, the excellent quality of HAMILTON'S ELIXIR, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from it, which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had suddenly to rise up in my bed with all the horrors of immediate suffocation. Add to these a constant pain in my breast and a cough, a great loss of strength and flesh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption. The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, without giving me any relief. Another physician who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamilton's Elixir a trial, saying, he had used it in his practice, and always found it do much good. A bottle was procured from Mr. Birch's, and I found relief before I had taken one-half of it. I continued to use it and was soon strong enough to attend to business. On taking cold, some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the elixir.

GEO. BENNER, jun.

No. 11, Broad-street, Philadelphia Mrs. H. Eoc.

From Luther Martin, Esq. late Attorney-General of the State of Maryland.

I comply with your request in stating my opinion of Hamilton's Elixir. It has been used in my family for two or three years past, with uniform success, whenever colds, coughs, or similar complaints, have rendered medicine necessary. I have myself found it an excellent and agreeable remedy for a very painful and troublesome affection of the breast, accompanied with soreness, and with obstructed and difficult breathing.

On these accounts I do not hesitate to recommend Hamilton's Elixir as a valuable medicine, and desiring public attention.

LUTHER MARTIN.

HAMILTON'S ELIXIR.

Is recommended as the best remedy for coughs, colds, asthmas, hooping-cough, approaching consumptions, and most disorders of the breast and lungs. This preparation will prove a valuable acquisition to public speakers who may be subject to temporary hoarseness, thickness of speech, &c. In long confirmed Asthmatic complaints where a cure can speedily be expected, this medicine affords immediate relief, moderating the fits of coughing, and rendering their recurrence less frequent. On children afflicted with the hooping cough, the like beneficial effects may confidently be expected.

ITCH CURED.

By once using Lee's Sovereign Ointment, which, although used for 20 years in Europe and for near 8 years in America, has never been known to fail in any one instance. It is perfectly innocent, warranted not to contain a particle of mercury or any pernicious ingredient, and may be used with perfect safety on an infant, being a vegetable preparation and entirely free from the offensive smell which attends most other remedies.

HAMILTON'S LOZENGES.

Which have cured more children and adults of disorders proceeding from worms, than all the medicines heretofore discovered. In addition to the great cures mentioned in the letters from the chancellor of the state of Maryland, the Rev. Mr. Moldner and others, lately published the following are submitted to the public, being selected for the purpose of shewing the mild yet powerful qualities of this extraordinary medicine, which, although so mild in its operation, is competent to expel the formidable tape worm.

An infant, aged 5 weeks, of Mr. Henry Ewbank, taylor, Charles-street, Baltimore, was dangerously afflicted with convulsion fits, so that his life was despaired of, but was perfectly cured by one dose of Hamilton's Worm Lozenges, which expelled several worms, the undoubted cause of the child's disorder.

Letter from Mr. Ackerman, bricklayer, Magazine street, near Broadway, Jan. 24, 1802.

It would be ungrateful were I to withhold my testimony in favor of Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges. I had been between five and six years past much indisposed, and latterly often tormented with severe griping and pains in the bowels, troubled with offensive breath, with violent feverish fits, and other obvious symptoms of worms; but frequently hearing your Worm Lozenges recommended in cases similar to mine, I determined on a trial of them, as my last resource. The first dose evacuated twelve or 13 feet of a tape worm; two other doses were taken, which brought away a quantity of matter broken like skins and pieces of worms. I suppose the tape worm, voided at different times, must in the whole have exceeded forty feet. The almost incredible benefit I received from this medicine, induced me to give a dose to a child of mine who was pining and sickly: it produced the same good effect in this instance, expelling a worm of a different kind, from nine to twelve inches long, and at the same time restoring a good state of health.

HENRY ACKERMAN.

ALSO,

The following new and valuable Medicine, just received and for sale as above.

(Price, Two Dollars per bottle.)

Dr. Tissot's celebrated Gout and Rheumatic Drops.

NOTHING is of more importance than the preservation of health—this common place remark however is too often forgotten, whilst we are active and strong—and prevention of pain, which is superior to its cure, is not sufficiently attended to by any description of persons. Among those disorders which require the most early and unremitting efforts to eradicate and overcome, none have a stronger claim upon our notice than the Gout, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Weakness of the Joints, Sprains, Gleet, the Stone and Gravel, the Cramp and every species of Rheumatic Pains from whatever cause they may have originated—and hence every relief which can be administered is too valuable to be forgotten. Those persons whose avocations peculiarly expose them to colds, &c. cannot be too anxious always to possess immediate aid. Sea-faring persons, travellers, &c. ought constantly to carry with them that medicine which will counteract the unpleasant effects of their perilous duties, and especially those pains to which their situation must expose them. To those who reside in or visit the West-Indies, and other warm climates, they will be found upon trial to convey the most lasting service, and will gradually destroy all tendency to disease in the human frame, and preserve health and vigor. Although a great variety of prescriptions have been published to cure the disorders enumerated above, none has yet equalled the GOUT AND RHEUMATIC DROPS OF DR. TISSOT, which are celebrated throughout the European continent, and whose unbounded benefits are fully authenticated by certificates already published of gentlemen so well known in America, being of the first consequence in the state of Maryland: General Charles Ridgely, of Hampton; John Gibson, Esq. one of the directors of the Farmers' Bank of Maryland; John Macubbin, Esq. Mrs. Macubbin, his wife; and Mrs. Ryan, of Calton.

Certificate of Mr. Thomas Kelso, butcher. About three weeks since I was most violently attacked with Rheumatic pains throughout my whole frame, in so severe a manner as not to be able to turn in my bed without assistance, proceeding as I suppose from a severe cold; on being advised by a friend to apply Dr. Tissot's Gout and Rheumatic Drops, I accordingly obtained from the agents Messrs. George Dobbin and Murphy, two bottles, the application of which, under God, have perfectly restored me to health. I am therefore induced with confidence to recommend this medicine as a certain cure for the above disorder.

THOMAS KELS0.

Baltimore, July 22d, 1806.

Certificate of Mr. Thomas Campbell, Harness-maker.

It would be an act of injustice to withhold my testimony of the salutary effects of Doctor Tissot's Gout and Rheumatic Drops, as I have experienced a very unequivocal instance of their virtues and efficacy. I was afflicted with two severe attacks of what is usually called Dead Palsy, from which I partially recovered, but was obliged to use crutches to aid me in walking when I left home; to this were joined violent Rheumatic pains, the result of the affliction, and I had feared the disorder would accompany me through life; but providentially was recommended to apply to George Dobbin and Murphy's for Dr. Tissot's Drops, and after using only one bottle, found myself perfectly liberated from my disorder, and am now, thank God, as free from pain as if I never had been afflicted. Finding this medicine operate so powerfully on myself, I determined to apply it internally to my child, a boy only eleven months old, who was then reduced almost to a skeleton with the Bowel Complaint; after administering it four times to him, his complaint was entirely removed, and he is now recovering his strength with great rapidity.
